Background

Executive Order 52 (2007) established the Public Safety Memorial Commission to study and recommend an appropriate memorial for the Commonwealth to commemorate the courage and sacrifice of the members of Virginia's public safety community. See Appendix I to read Executive Order 52.

The men and women of the public safety community unselfishly risk their lives every day to provide us with safety and security. A Public Safety Memorial to honor Virginia's fallen heroes would give the friends and family of the men and women who have died in the line of duty a place to remember their loved ones, and it would provide Virginians with a memorial to honor and respect those who have made the ultimate sacrifice serving our Commonwealth.

Between January 1, 2006 and June 1, 2007 there have been a total of 33 line of duty deaths in the Commonwealth (Virginia State Police - 6, Sheriff's Offices - 8, Police Departments - 11, Corrections - 1, and Fire Departments - 7). The total number of line of duty deaths from January 1, 1986 to June 1, 2007 is 250. Virginia is one of only a few states that does not have some kind of public safety memorial dedicated to those who have died in the line of duty. To learn more about public safety memorials across the nation, see Appendix II for a Summary of State Memorials.

The number of states with relevant memorials:

- 32 States have firefighters' memorials.
- 18 States have law enforcement memorials.
- 7 States have peace officers' memorials.
- 4 States have police officers' memorials.
- 1 State has a public safety memorial.
- 1 State has a first responder memorial.
- 6 States are planning firefighters' memorials.
- 5 States are planning law enforcement memorials.

The Public Safety Memorial Commission includes members of the General Assembly, individuals from local law enforcement and fire departments, representation from the Department of Corrections, the Department of Emergency Management, the Department of Fire Programs, and the Virginia State Police, and family members of men and women who have given their lives in the line of duty. See Appendix III for the complete list of Commission members.

Status of Commission

The appointments to the Public Safety Memorial Commission were finalized in late August. To date, the Commission has held one meeting on September 12, 2007 in the Cabinet Conference Room of the Patrick Henry Building. See Appendix IV for the minutes of the September 12, 2007 Commission meeting. Staff support for the Commission has been provided by the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety and the Commission Workgroup. The Commission Workgroup is made up of representatives from the Office of the Secretary of Administration and various public safety agencies. Appendix V contains a complete list of the Workgroup members. Additionally, Dr. Joseph Seipel with the School of Arts at Virginia Commonwealth University has been very helpful by providing the Commission with guidance on the artist and design selection process.

A link for public comment is available on the Secretary of Public Safety's website. To date, no public comment has been submitted to the Commission through the website.

Pursuant to Executive Order 52 (2007), the Public Safety Memorial Commission will remain in effect until December 1, 2007, unless amended.

Recommendations

The following are the recommendations of the Public Safety Memorial Commission:

- It is recommended that the Line of Duty Act (§9.1-400) be used as the guideline for inclusion on the Public Safety Memorial. See Appendix VI for the Line of Duty Act and Appendix VII for the outline of the presentation on the Line of Duty Act presented to the Commission on September 12, 2007.
- The Governor endorse the "Memorial Purpose and Objectives" agreed upon by the Commission. See Appendix VIII for the Memorial Purpose and Objectives.
- For artist and memorial design, the Public Safety Memorial Commission recommends using an open call selection process. See Appendix I for more information about the open call process and Appendix IX for a draft open call announcement prepared by Dr. Seipel of the Virginia Commonwealth University, School of the Arts.
- It is recommended that the Governor include funding for the Public Safety Memorial. The costs associated with relevant memorials nationwide and the costs of the Civil Rights Memorial were reviewed in consideration for the above recommendation; see Appendix X for a list of potential planning needs.

- For the Public Safety Memorial Commission to continue its work, it is recommended that the Governor amend Executive Order 52 (2007) to extend the Public Safety Memorial Commission to remain in effect until the artist and design selection process are completed.
- Hold a Memorial ground breaking ceremony before the conclusion of this Administration.

Next Steps & Conclusions

An appropriate memorial location needs to be determined. There was some discussion at the first Commission meeting on memorial location, however, no conclusions were made. One potential memorial location is Darden Garden; Darden Garden is the stretch outside of the Capitol gates between the General Assembly Building and the Patrick Henry Building.

Upon the Governor's approval of a budget for this project and the continuation of the Public Safety Memorial Commission, the Commission will proceed with the design selection process. Several Commission members have already volunteered to serve on a selection committee to review design proposals and Dr. Seipel has agreed to guide the Commission through the open call process.

Appendix I. Executive Order 52 (2007) Establishing a Public Safety Memorial Commission

Establishing a Public Safety Memorial Commission

Importance of the Issue

Every day, brave men and women put on their uniforms and dedicate their lives to the protection of life and property throughout the Commonwealth. Virginia's Law Enforcement Officers, Firefighters, Corrections Officers, Emergency Medical Technicians and Emergency Management personnel serve our Commonwealth providing us with safety and security, and responding when we are in need.

Unfortunately, every year we mourn the loss of members of the public safety community. A Public Safety Memorial would be a meaningful and fitting honor to Virginia's fallen heroes giving the friends and family of the men and women who have died in the line of duty a place to remember them, and to give Virginians a memorial to honor and respect those who have made the ultimate sacrifice serving our society.

Establishment of the Commission

Virginia is one of only ten states in the country without a state-level memorial honoring public safety personnel who have died in the line of duty. I am hereby formally establishing the Public Safety Memorial Commission, to honor the men and women who have died in the line of duty while serving Virginians.

Composition of the Commission

The Public Safety Memorial Commission shall be chaired by the Secretary of Public Safety. Recognizing that these efforts will require the work of individuals across a broad spectrum of professions and expertise, the Commission shall consist of the Secretary of Administration, representatives from state agencies, representatives from the General Assembly, and members of the public safety community appointed by the Governor and serving at his pleasure. Additional members may be appointed at the Governor's discretion.

Members of the Commission shall serve without compensation, but they may receive reimbursement for expenses incurred in the discharge of their official duties.

Charge for the Commission

I hereby direct the Commission to study and recommend to the Governor and General Assembly an appropriate memorial for the Commonwealth to commemorate the courage and sacrifice of Virginia's Public Safety personnel.

I further direct that all agencies of the Commonwealth provide any assistance that may be requested by the Commission. Staff support for the Commission shall be provided by the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety, and such other agencies as may be designated by the Governor. The Commission shall submit a report with its recommendations by October 30, 2007.

This Executive Order shall become effective upon its signing and shall remain in full force and effect until December 1, 2007, unless amended or rescinded by further executive order.

Given under my hand and under the seal of the Commonwealth of Virginia this 13th day of June, 2007.

/s/ Timothy M. Kaine, Governor

Attest:

/s/ Secretary of the Commonwealth

Appendix II. Summary of State Memorials

Many states have established memorials to honor their fallen public safety personnel:

- 32 states have firefighters' memorials;
- 18 states have law enforcement memorials:
- 7 states have peace officers' memorials;
- 4 states have police officers' memorials;
- 2 states have public safety or first responder memorials.

Additionally, six states are in the planning process for firefighter memorials and five more states currently are in the building or planning process for law enforcement memorials.

Most commonly these memorials are located on the grounds of state capitols; however, some are located at training sites used by either law enforcement or firefighters. Georgia and Vermont are unique because their memorials encompass all emergency response or public safety personnel.

States have taken many different approaches in raising the funds for their memorials. While some states have successfully funded their memorials through their state legislature, the majority have been funded by private donations.

Below is a complied list of the states that have memorials and some general information about the memorials.

Additionally, on June 11, 2003, the House and Senate of the Alabama legislature passed a joint resolution designating the Alabama Firefighter Memorial as the official firefighters' memorial for the State of Alabama

CALIFORNIA

The California Peace Officers' Memorial is located at the Capitol Park in Sacramento. The memorial was dedicated in 1988. The memorial was designed by the California Peace Officers' Memorial Commission created by the state legislature in 1985. To build the tribute, more than $200,000 was raised in private donations, primarily by the law enforcement community; much of it came through the sale of desk replicas.

The memorial consists of three bronze figures representing the more than 1,400 peace officers who have died in the line of duty since California became a state. The three look down on a life-sized figure of a woman comforting a child sitting on a bench, representing the grief-torn families they left behind. The bronze figures depict a county sheriff of the 1880s, a state trooper of the 1930s, and a city patrolman of the 1980s.

The centerpiece of the Memorial is a six foot by twelve foot polished impala black granite stone bearing the likeness of four firefighters fighting a blaze; the centerpiece rests upon a base of concrete and gray granite to which are affixed plaques with the engraved names of those who have lost their lives. Deputy Secretary Harris introduced the Workgroup members to the Commission, and made some housekeeping announcements. She next announced that a link is available for the Commission on the Secretary of Public Safety's website.

National Overview of Public Safety Memorials

Marilyn Harris, Deputy Secretary of Public Safety

Deputy Secretary Harris gave a presentation providing background information on public safety memorials across the country. Thirty-two states have firefighters' memorials; eighteen states have law enforcement memorials; seven states have peace officers' memorials; four states have police officers' memorials; one state has a public safety memorial; one state has a first responder memorial. Additionally, eleven states are in the planning or building process for firefighter memorials or law enforcement memorials.

Lessons Learned from the Civil Rights Memorial

Richard Zorn, Deputy Secretary of Administration

Presentation:

Deputy Secretary Zorn presented on his experience with the Civil Rights Memorial and made recommendations for the Public Safety Memorial.

If General Funds are not used for the memorial the Commission will need to set up a tax-exempt 501 (c)(3) organization in order to get large private donations. It takes four months to a year to set up a 501 (c)(3). Additionally, a 501 (c)(3) organization the staff may not work for state government. For the Civil Rights Memorial, two lawyers volunteered their time to set up the 501 (c)(3); they also had a lawyer assist the Capitol Square Civil Rights Memorial Foundation with issues related to intellectual property rights.

With the Civil Rights Memorial, the Capitol Square Civil Rights Memorial Foundation currently owns the memorial and will turn it over to state when the memorial is dedicated, at that time the Foundation will cease to exist. After the memorial is given to the state, the Department of General Services will have the responsibility of maintaining the memorial since will be located within Capitol Square.

For the memorial design, Deputy Secretary Zorn recommended that the Commission hold a national competition to avoid any controversy surrounding the memorial design.

The cost of the Civil Rights Memorial is $3 million and the statue includes eleven bronze life-size figures.

Discussion:

Next there was a brief discussion about the possibility that if general funds are used to finance the memorial, members of the public and organizations may still want some sort of buy-in, even if that comes in the way of providing a scholarship fund associated with the memorial. Deputy Secretary Zorn suggested that even if the memorial is funded through general funds there may be a need to find lawyers to assist with issues surrounding inclusion in the memorial and issues related to intellectual property rights.

Chief Marquis inquired about the kind of staffing the Commission is going to need to make the memorial a reality. Deputy Secretary Zorn and Dr. Seipel both agreed that is necessary to have at least one staff member solely devoted to this effort, especially when it comes to dealing with the details and records.

Janet Clements suggested that the Commission may want to consider working with the Public Safety Foundation. The Public Safety Foundation is a 501 (c)(3) organization which provides immediate assistance to the families of public safety officers killed or severely injured in the line of duty.

Next there was a brief discussion about the memorial location. Deputy Secretary Zorn explained that Darden Garden is technically outside of Capitol Square and that is the area between the Patrick Henry Building, the General Assembly Building and the gate that designates what is inside of Capitol Square. The rules that govern what is included inside the fence are different than those that govern what is beyond the gates. There is much more flexibility outside of Capitol Square.

Delegate Sherwood suggested that the Commission come up with some sort of timeline for this project so that if there is a need for legislative action that it can be handled in a timely manner.

Aesthetic Guidance

Dr. Joseph Siepel, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Director of Graduate Studies, VCU

Presentation:

First, Dr. Seipel described the process for deciding on a memorial site and the type of art work for a memorial. Dr. Seipel explained that there are many different media that can be used in designing a memorial, including but not limited to sculpture, landscape, painting, sound, lighting, water features, etc.

Next, Dr. Seipel described that the artist's experience and reputation have some serious cost implications. Artists' fees can vary from 15 - 50% of the cost of the art work; however, he emphasized the importance of finding an artist that can get the job done, similar to that of hiring a good contractor, you need to know that they are dependable.

Then he described three different routes to selecting an artist:

- 1. Open Call Selection This process uses art/sculpture specific journals to attract potential artists by posting a description of what the Commission is looking for in the art work. Artists then submit preliminary drawings and concept ideas for the sculpture/art work. The advantages of this selection process are that it is open and that you will get a variety of different choices. The disadvantages of this selection process are that it can be time consuming to review all of the submissions and the skill level of the artists will vary.
- 2. Limited Proposals This process includes researching artists ahead of time and then requesting that a handful of artists submit proposals. This process is time consuming in that it takes a considerable amount of time to research potential artists and it may receive criticism for the lack of openness.
- 3. Selecting an Artist Directly requesting a specific artist to design the memorial without any type of competition. This option will receive criticism from the art community for the lack of openness.

The second and third options provide for higher caliber of skilled artists, however, open call provides for a greater diversity and is the least controversial.

Discussion:

Following Dr. Seipel's presentation, there was a brief discussion about whether or not it is necessary to find an artist from Virginia. The artist for the Civil Rights Memorial is from Connecticut. Many of the Commission members agreed that it is not necessary to select an artist that is a Virginia resident. Delegate Carrico agreed with Dr. Seipel, by saying that we want to get the best artist we can, regardless of where they are from.

Next, there was a discussion about including a roll call in the memorial design. Chief Jones suggested that, to make the memorial personal, it needs to include the names of the individuals who died in the line of duty. Janet Clements agreed by saying that including the names is one of the most powerful and meaningful things about this type of memorial.

Detective Armel suggested that we work with the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial to get a list of all of the fallen law enforcement officers who have died in the line of duty here in Virginia.

One Commission member suggested while the Commission is working on this project we post a roll call of those honored on the Secretary of Public Safety's website.

Lunch

During the lunch break, Chief Jones briefly presented on the firefighters and law enforcement memorial in the City of Newport News.

The Line of Duty in Virginia

Captain Lenmuel Terry, Virginia State Police

Presentation:

Captain Terry presented on the individuals included under the Line of Duty Act (§9.1-400).

Discussion:

Following Captain Terry's presentation, the Commission members agreed that the memorial should follow the criteria described in the Line of Duty Act for inclusion in the roll call on the memorial.

Memorial Purpose

Craig Hartley, Department of Criminal Justice Services

Craig Hartley facilitated a discussion on the memorial purpose. The Commission members made changes to the draft memorial purpose presented to them. The Commission members agreed on the purpose and objectives for the memorial for the Report to the Governor and to use an open call for artist selection.

Closing Discussion

In closing discussion, the Commission agreed on proceeding with an open call selection process and to begin gathering ideas for the memorial design. A small group of Commission members signed up with Deputy Secretary Harris to work with Dr. Seipel on putting together an open call request in a journal. They will present their results to the Commission at the next meeting.

Delegate Sherwood suggested that in the Report to the Governor to request funds towards planning and staff for the first year in the budget cycle and request funds for the actual memorial in the budget for year two in the budget cycle.

Deputy Secretary Harris called for public comment, however, there was none.

The meeting was adjourned at approximately 1:30 p.m.
